

The Nepal social workers celebrate World Social Work Day 2025, with a conference organized by the GPKMC Student Welfare Club concluded today in Nepal. The event focused on this year's theme, "Strengthening Intergenerational Solidarity for Enduring Wellbeing"

Mr. Sanjay K C and Ms. Swikrita Rai presented papers on the theme and its relevance to social work in Nepal's context. The conference featured engaging discussions among students, social workers, and lecturers on various social work-related topics and this year's theme.

A key takeaway from the event was the recognition that this year's theme is particularly relevant for Nepal in the present scenario. The conference was attended by distinguished guests, including a former minister, the Chancellor of Nepal Fine Arts Academy, the Head of the Central Department of Social Work, and the President of NASW. Lecturers, social workers, and students also actively participated in the program.

The event was further enriched by cultural programs and student activities, showcasing the vibrant spirit of our social work community.

We are grateful for IFSW's continued guidance in shaping global social work themes that resonate with local contexts.
