DISASTER PREPAREDNESS, MITIGATION & REHABILITATION

- SOCIAL WORK PERSPECTIVE -

Countries across the Asia-Pacific region have witnessed many disasters in the last decade. Earthquakes, typhoons, floods and fires have been 'natural' disasters that have regularly impacted many countries. We also have experienced 'manmade' disasters including social and political conflicts that have caused distress in the affected communities. This workshop aims to bring social work experiences and practical interventions from those who have worked during such disasters and provide opportunities to share strategies that can be documented for future guidance.
